Thai Enquirer Summary

Economic News

- The Centre for Covid-19 Situation Administration (CCSA)'s meeting will today discuss approaches to accept vaccinated international tourists without having to be quarantined, to facilitate investments to fuel an economic recovery, with a focus on plans to welcome tourists to major tourist cities like Phuket and those along the Andaman Sea Coast.
  - ❖ The meeting is expected to discuss Covid-19 prevention measures for foreign tourists in provinces to accommodate the government's plan to reopen the country to foreign visitors, according to government spokesman Anucha Burapachaisri.
  - ❖ Deputy Prime Minister - Supattanapong Punmeechaow, also came out to state that this was the issue that was going to be discussed in today's meeting.
  - ❖ The meeting will also discuss a revamp of regulations to facilitate businesses and attract foreign investors such as the ratification of restrictions on foreign ownership of Thai businesses, targeted tax privileges and a revamp of customs procedures to expedite imports and reduce capital costs.
- Thailand's Food & Drug Administration (FDA) took a 'bold' step in approving the 3rd Covid-19 vaccine – Johnson & Johnson.

- ❖ The previous 2 approved were
  - AstraZeneca
  - SinoVac
- ❖ The problem with Johnson & Johnson is that the vaccines are not available as it is the latest one to be developed.
- ❖ <https://www.thaienquirer.com/25771/johnson-johnson-vaccine-gains-thai-approval-as-inoculation-nears-100k/>
- Meanwhile, 8 tourism-related associations calling for the government to come up with a concrete vaccination plan and a commitment to expedite the reopening process on July 1 for a quick economic recovery.
  - ❖ They submitted a request to the Tourism and Sports Ministry to allocate Covid-19 vaccines for at least 70 per cent of residents in Phuket or Koh Samui from April 15 to June 30.
  - ❖ The 8 organisations are the Thai Hotels Association (THA), the Tourism Council of Thailand, the Association of Thai Travel Agents (Atta), the Airlines Association of Thailand, the Thai Spa Association, the Pacific Asia Travel Association, the Board of Airline Representatives Business Association and the International Air Transport Association (IATA).
  - ❖ THA President Marisa Sukosol Nunbhakdi said a clear roadmap and conditions for tourists to enter the country need to be announced to prepare for the country's reopening.
- Thailand's exports in February plunged 2.59 per cent from a year earlier, weighed down by lower gold shipments, according to Phusit Rattanakul Sereeruengsit, director-general of the Trade Policy and Strategy Office at the Commerce Ministry.

- ❖ The reading compares with a fall of 1.50 per cent forecast in a Reuters poll and a 0.35 per cent increase in January.
- ❖ Excluding gold, exports would have increased 4.01 per cent in February.
- ❖ Despite the drop, Phusit is upbeat that Thailand's exports will recovery in the 2nd quarter of this year driven by:
  - ✓ 1) The progress of the distribution of Covid-19 jabs to Thai population at a wider range which should help spur economic activities in the regional level;
  - ✓ 2) The US $1.9 trillion Covid-19 relief package rolled out by the US Government to bolster the global economy;
  - ✓ 3) An anticipation that crude oil prices will go above $60 per barrel.
  - ✓ 4) A trend that the baht will depreciate against the US dollar in the 1st quarter.
- Suphachai Chearavanont, chairman of Charoen Pokphand (CP) Group and chairman of the executive committee of True Corporation, wants Thailand to adjust its "Feng Shui" (literally means changing its energy flow) to drive the country's economy forward.
  - ❖ By Feng Shui adjustments, Suphachai means that Thailand must pushing itself to become global hubs in several aspects to attract investments. Apart from the Eastern Economic Corridor (EEC) scheme, he advised the government to accelerate investment in the South Economic Corridor (SEC) scheme, especially the proposed land bridge project running across Thailand to help logistics from the Indian Ocean to the Pacific Ocean. Suphachai said this mega project proposal will help link Thailand to 2 economic superpowers China and India. This can help put Thailand in the position of a global trade hub and a global financial hub.

- SET-listed Central Pattana Plc (CPN), a property and retail developer, plans to focus on extending its mixed-use portfolio by opening three new projects in the second half this year and 2022. The expansion is projected to happen in parallel with a recovery of Thailand's 3.6-trillion-baht retail business.
  - ❖ Wallaya Chirathivat, CPN's deputy chief executive, said the company wants to open fully integrated mixed-use complexes in cities with high economic potential, including Ayutthaya, Sri Racha in Chon Buri and Chanthaburi, which are scheduled to open in September 2021, October 2021 and the second quarter of 2022, respectively. The total investment of 13.9 billion baht increases the tally of Central malls in Thailand to 36.
- Krungthai Bank (KTB) is seeking a meeting with the Joint Standing Committee on Commerce, Industry and Banking (JSCCIB) to ask it to reassess Thailand's economic outlook in 2021 at the next JSCCIB meeting scheduled in April.
  - ❖ KTB president Payong Srivanich said the bank would ask the joint committee to review its economic outlook forecast at 1.5-3.5 per cent this year despite distribution of the Covid vaccine. KTB sees more positive factors that push Thailand's economy to grow as much as 4 per cent, although still lower than the global rate of 5.6 per cent.
  - ❖ The KTB president cited many factors that may cause Thailand's economic recovery pace to be slower than the global rate such as its dependence on exports and tourism as well as the country's household debts that surged to a record high of 86.7 per cent of GDP, from 78 per cent before the Covid-19 outbreak.
- A move by an electronics firm in Nava Nakorn industrial estate to hire 300-400 new employees saw 1,000's of people lining up to apply for the job.

- ❖ The company, ROHM Integrated Systems (Thailand), has become the talk of the town due to the sheer number of people lining up to apply for the job openings at the firm at a time when many companies have been laying people off.
- ❖ Media reports suggested that the line went for as much as 3 kilometers

Political News

- The Opposition Kao Klai (Move Forward) Party's bill to seek an amendment to the lese majeste law Section 112 was rejected by the parliament.
  - ❖ The party was told that a bill submitted by the party to amend Section 112 of the Criminal Code on lese majeste to promote and protect civil rights and freedom of speech contravenes the constitution.
  - ❖ It will be interesting to see if Move Forward will devise other plans to renew its push.

- An extraordinary parliamentary session scheduled for April 7-8 to deliberate the referendum bill may be postponed as the Council of State has not yet finished its work on the bill.
  - ❖ Deputy Prime Minister Wissanu Krea-ngam said he discussed the matter with Parliament President Chuan Leekpai, and they acknowledged the session scheduled for April 7-8 may be too early. Mr Wissanu quoted Mr Chuan as saying it is up to the government to decide on when the session should be held.
  - ❖ Senator Poldej Pinprateep, who sits on a committee vetting the bill, said the Council of State, which is the government's legal advisory body, has told the committee that it cannot finish scrutiny of the bill in time for the session as it has to amend several sections related to Section 9. Therefore, the session scheduled for April 7-8 is likely to be postponed until after Songkran when parliament convenes for a special session.
- The core coalition Phalang Pracharat Party (PPRP) is facing a turmoil ahead of the party's annual general assembly (AGM) scheduled in April following reports that the faction led by Deputy Agriculture and Cooperatives Minister Thamanat Prompow is lobbying for a replacement of the party's secretary-general.
  - ❖ While an overhaul of the party's executive committee is expected at the upcoming AGM, it is said that Capt. Thamanat-led faction is seeking to replace Anucha Nakasai, the party's current secretary-general, with Santi Prompat.
  - ❖ This will likely lead to fraction between the Saam Mitr Group and Capt Thamanat's faction. Another reports said Justice Minister Somsak Thepsutin, as a Saam Mitr key member, has offered himself as a candidate for the party's secretary-general post to keep Saam Mitr's leverage.
  - ❖ Many PPRP MPs fear that the replacement of the party's secretary general could fuel a new round of conflict inside the party.

- The Supreme Court's Criminal Division for Political Office Holders accepted a case lodged against Phalang Pracharat Party MP (PPRP) for Ratchaburi Pareena Kraikupt who was accused by the National Anti-Corruption Commission (NACC) of holding property in a national forest reserve.
  - ❖ At hearing on the case, the court declared that it would take on the matter as filed by the NACC. It also ordered Pareena to immediately suspend her MP duties. Both parties are to convene for a hearing on April 30 at 09:30 hrs.
  - ❖ Pareena has been given 14 days to file a response. Pareena has previously filed a request for the court not to accept the case and for her duties not to be suspended.
  - ❖ However, the court ruled that in accordance with the Constitution article 235 Section 3, she must be barred from political activities after sufficient evidence for the case was submitted.
- Public prosecutors postponed until May 13, 2021 the hearing of 13 political activists involved in the protest in front of the German Embassy in Bangkok on October 26, 2020 as the prosecutor has yet to finish the paperwork needed to file the case against the protesters.
  - ❖ The group is facing royal defamation charges under Section 112 of the Criminal Code for either reading a statement or giving speeches during the protest, in which they submit a petition calling for the German authorities to investigate His Majesty King Vajiralongkorn's use of power during his time in Germany.
  - ❖ In addition to the royal defamation charge, several among the 13 protesters are also charged with sedition under Section 116 of the Criminal Code.
  - ❖ Student activist Patsaravalee Tanakitvibulpon said before going to meet with the public prosecutor that she is still confident, especially after last night's protest at the Ratchaprasong intersection, where she gave a speech calling for monarchy reform.

- ❖ According to Thai Lawyers for Human Rights (TLHR), at least 77 people are facing royal defamation charges for their involvement in recent protests, 6 of whom are minors. Several protest leaders are also facing several counts, such as Parit, who is facing 20 counts, Anon Nampa, who is facing 12 counts, and Panusaya Sithijirawattanakul, who is facing 9 counts.
- ❖ Meanwhile, key protest leader Panupong “Mike Rayong” Jadnok is facing another sedition charge under Section 116 brought by the Mueang Rayong Police Station for holding a sign against Prime Minister Gen Prayut Chan-o-cha during the latter’s visit to the province on July 15, 2020.
- ❖ The Pathumwan Police Station also brought a charge of sedition against Panupong for violation of the emergency decree during an MBK Skywalk rally to demand the release of key protest leaders on February 10, 2021
- Meanwhile, Phupat Saengsubin, coordinator of a royalist group led by Suwit Thongprasert, the former Phra Buddha Isara, submitted a letter to Anek Laothamatas, the Minister of Higher Education Science Research and Innovation, asking him to take action against the Nitirat group, which consists of law professors from Thammasat University.
  - ❖ Phupat claimed that the Nitirat group showed strong support for political rallies organised by some Thammasat student activists who had allegedly insulted the monarchy. Their role has triggered conflict and turmoil in society. He asked the Higher Education Science Research and Innovation Minister to halt or limit the role of the Nitirat law professors and expel students whose action posed a threat to the monarchy.

- The opposition Kao Klai (Move Forward) Party has spurned rumours that its party leader Pita Limjaroenrat will stand as a candidate in the Bangkok governor election tentatively scheduled in October.
  - ❖ Move Forward list MP and spokesman Wiroj Lakkhanaadisorn came out to dismiss the possibility of the party fielding Pita as a candidate for the upcoming Bangkok gubernatorial contest. Wiroj said the reason is because Pita is a suitable candidate for the PM's post.
  - ❖ He said the party's candidate screening committee has now selected 2-3 candidates, both male and female, who are in their late 30s and early 40s. The party expects to debut its candidates before a new parliamentary session in April.
- The Royal Thai Army has ordered an investigation into a lieutenant officer of the Judge Advocate General's Department who expressed his comment in support of singer Chai-amorn Kaewwiboonpan, aka "Ammy The Bottom Blues", who set fire to a portrait of His Majesty the King.
  - ❖ Army chief Gen Narongphan Jitkaewtae is expected to set up a fact-finding committee to look into the lieutenant soldier's comment, a source with the army said, adding that Gen Narongphan has instructed the army to steer clear from politics, political rallies and making political comments on social media.
  - ❖ This case is considered a severe case because it is involved the monarchy, the source said.
- Both government and opposition MPs came under fire for their shameful behaviour.
  - ❖ Netizens shared photos of an S-class Mercedes-Benz owned by a coalition MP who use electricity at the parliament complex to recharge his car's battery.

- House secretary Pornpit Petcharoen responded that the House secretariat does not allow any individual to bring their personal vehicle to charge their electric vehicle in the parliament building. An investigation is under way, Pornpit said.
  - ❖ Another case is a Pheu Thai MP who came under fire for parking at a disability parking spot.
    - Ubonsak Bualuang-ngam, a Pheu Thai MP for Lop Buri, came out to admit that he parked in a disability parking spot at parliament's parking building but said he had some pains in his right leg and found it difficult to walk. He even said he had to rely on a wheelchair whenever he boards a plane.

General News

- Thailand confirmed 97 cases of coronavirus infections in the last 24 hours, mostly in Bangkok, according to a report of the Centre for the Covid-19 Situation Administration (CCSA).
  - ❖ Of these new cases, 92 were domestic infections and 5 others referred to imported cases, the CCSA report said.
  - ❖ Sixty-five of the local cases were confirmed in Bangkok due to a recent outbreak at Bang Khae Market in the capital city, the report said.
  - ❖ Cumulative infections, since early last year, are 28,443, with 26,946 recoveries and 92 deaths. 1,405 others are still being treated in hospitals.

- ❖ Pongsakorn Kwanmuang, spokesman for the Bangkok Metropolitan Administration (BMA), said on BMA Facebook that the Bang Khae market cluster of infections is steadily increasing, with 56 new cases reported yesterday, raising the total in the cluster to 536, with another 2,540 results yet to be announced.
- There is a report that a patient with an abdominal aortic aneurysms has passed away after receiving a Covid-19 jab, Dr Sophon Mekthon, assistant to the public health minister, revealed.
  - ❖ Dr Sophon, also chairman of a subcommittee on Covid-19 vaccine management, said an investigation is underway following cases of 2 vaccine recipients who showed severe allergic reactions. His panel is also looking into the case of a patient with an abdominal aortic aneurysms who passed away after receiving a Covid-19 vaccine. Initially, the panel has ruled out the cause of death from the vaccine.
  - ❖ Another report said Deputy Agriculture and Cooperatives Minister Mananya Thaiset was admitted for a treatment in a hospital for 3 days after receiving her 1st dose of the Sinovac vaccine at Government House on March 16. A medical team said Manaya's high fevers may be caused by the vaccine. She is now cleared of any symptom and has returned to her duties.
- A former casino operator was arrested and charged yesterday with masterminding the murder of a man whose information prompted police to raid and shut down his gambling den.
  - ❖ Somchai Jutikitdecha, aka "Longjoo Somchai," 56, is accused of ordering the death of motorcycle taxi rider Prathum Sa-adnak, 47, who was shot dead in Pattaya on July 28 last year. He was arrested by the Central Investigation Bureau (CIB) at his two-rai residence on Rat Bamrung Road in tambon Noen Phra of Muang district about 6am yesterday morning.

- ❖ Assets estimated to be worth about 800 million baht, including a yacht, four sport cars and the house were also seized, Pol Maj Gen Jiraphob Bhuridet, deputy commissioner of the CIB said.
  - Min Buri Criminal Court yesterday released rock star Seksan "Sek Loso" Sookpimay on bail despite denying his request to ask the Supreme Court to reconsider previous rulings in which he was given 42 months in jail.
    - ❖ The rock star was released after his lawyer filed a separate appeal against an earlier decision by Min Buri Criminal Court, which had refused to allow Seksan leave to appeal to the Supreme Court.
    - ❖ The Min Buri court said it received advice from a judge who reviewed the evidence, that the case should not go to the Supreme Court, saying he must serve the Appeal Court's ruling of 2 years and 18 months. Seksan's lawyer filed the new appeal about 3pm, and the court granted Mr Seksan temporary release on 600,000 baht surety.
