Thai Enquirer Summary

Political News

- The government is set to extend a state of emergency due to expire at the end of this month by another month as Thailand gears up for the reopening of borders to foreign visitors while maintaining its relative success in containing local transmission of the COVID-19.
 - ❖ The Centre for Covid-19 Situation Administration (CCSA)'s meeting chaired by Prime Minister Prayut Chan-o-cha yesterday (September 28) approved the extension of emergency rules through October 31, according to National Security Council (NSC) chief Gen Somsak Rungsita.
 - This is the 6th such extension of the 'state of emergency' ever since the measures were put in place on March 26th 2020 on the pretext of preventing the outbreak of the Coronavirus.
 - ❖ The panel also approved special tourist visas for foreign tourists starting next month, Tourism and Sports Minister Phiphat Ratchakitprakarn said.
 - ❖ The 1-month extension will be put up at the cabinet's meeting today (September 29).

- Embattled Prime Minister Gen Prayut Chan-o-cha has come out to dismiss the possibility of the opposition Pheu Thai Party joining his coalition government anytime soon.
 - ❖ Gen Prayut told reporters at Government House that the time for the Pheu Thai Party to join his government as a coalition partner is not coming up as yet. He declined to elaborate further.
 - ❖ The Prime Minister made his comments in response to the resignation en masse of Pheu Thai Party leader Sompong Amornvivat which automatically resulted in the dissolution of the entire executive board of the party.
- Meanwhile an extraordinary party caucus is expected at 10.00 hrs on October 1st at the Pheu Thai Party headquarters to pick a new party leader, who will concurrently become Opposition leader in parliament, and a new executive committee to pave the way for a major revamp.
 - ❖ At the party's extraordinary meeting, there is a strong possibility that Sompong could again be re-elected as party leader and opposition leader while Prasert Chanthararungthong, a Nakhon Ratchasima MP, who has a direct connection with the "Shinawatra" family will be elected as the party's new secretary-general, according to a Pheu Thai source.
 - ❖ The party's 20 executive committee members will be divided up across all factions. Under the new structure, the party aims to enlist younger-generation politicians to erase the image of several key members who are leftist.
 - Arunee Kasayanoon, a young blood politician and a former member of the Thai Raksa Chaat party, is to be tipped as party spokesperson, the same source said.

- ❖ Initially, Khunying Potjaman na Pombejra is expected to lead the Politburo’s weekly meeting. The weekly meeting will be chaired by Potjaman, accompanied by her personal assistant, a number of old clique members like Surapong Suebwonglee, Phumtham Wechayachai, who are now in a group called CARE, Chusak Sirinil who will take charge of legal affairs, Pichai Nariphaphan who will oversee economic affairs and other old clique members from the Thai Raksa Chart Party and the red shirt movement.
- Still with Pheu Thai, the party’s acting executive committee has approved a new logo for the party which will be submitted to the general meeting of the party for final endorsement next month, acting party leader Chusak Sirinil announced.
 - ❖ Chusak said the new logo has adopted the “Uthong” traditional font, to fit with changing circumstances and the changes in the party.
 - ❖ Chusak said party supporters had welcomed the new logo, with one Facebook user posting a message saying that a fortune teller once warned that the current logo, using a font in which the Thai letters do not have heads was deemed inauspicious.

- In a rare public appearance, former prime minister Chavalit Yongchaiyudh, also an ex-army chief, dropped in at army headquarters to see Gen Apirat Kongsompong on his last day as army chief.

- ❖ During their conversation, Gen Chavalit likened Gen Apirat as his own nephew as he and Gen Sunthorn Kongsompong are former classmates at the Armed Forces Academies Preparatory School.
- ❖ Gen Chavalit also expressed grave concerns over anti-monarchy movements. He said it was a shame that Gen Apirat served as the post of the army chief only 2 years and has now been appointed to serve Their Majesties.
- ❖ Gen Apirat said it was important that someone served Their Majesties. Gen Apirat was appointed early this month along with Corrections Department director-general Naras Savestanan as deputies of the Lord Chamberlain, he has been instructed to conduct a survey of the monarch's estates so water storage facilities can be built for public use.
- This meeting of Chavalit and Apirat is being interpreted as something that may have some more indication than that meets the eye.
 - ❖ Again, this is another symbolism of things happening in the country
 - 1st was the unexpected audience by HM the King with former Prime Minister Thaksin Shinawatra's ex-wife Khunying Potjaman na Pombejra on September 25th
 - 2nd was the sudden resignation by Sudarat Keyuraphan and the executive board that followed
 - And now is the meeting of Chavalit and Apirat
 - The symbolism is because Chavalit is considered to be close to Thaksin while Apirat is considered to be close to the powers that are in control of things in Thailand.

- Out of the blue, Chatchai Promlert, permanent secretary of the Ministry of Interior, came out to dismiss rumours that he was instructed by 2 influential figures in the government with the initial “Por” to form a back-up party.
 - ❖ Chatchai said he, as an active state official, does not get involved in politics. Besides, Chatchai said he never heard of such an order. His job is to take care of problems of the public.
- Protest leaders Panusaya “Rung” Sithijirawattanakul, of the United Front of Thammasat and Demonstration (UFTD), and Panupong “Mike Rayong” yesterday (September 28) led mass supporters to march to the 4th Cavalry Division King’s Guard.
 - ❖ The group held a symbolic activity called “Tam Ha Nai” (Search for the Boss) in order to question the progress of the case involving 3 plain-clothes cadets who head locked a member of the general public who showed up to give support to the Internet Law Reform Dialogue (iLaw) during its sign-up campaign to sponsor a motion for a charter rewrite on September 22.
 - ❖ The UFTD waited in front of the 4th Cavalry Division King’s Guard for more than 2 hours but received no response from the arm. The group started to attack the logo of the 4th Cavalry Division by throwing eggs and paints.
 - ❖ Panuponglater threatened to march to the army headquarters if the commander of the 3 cadets failed to impose any punishment to the soldiers.

- Something we all can laugh about

❖ The National Anti-Corruption Commission (NACC)’s annual Integrity and Transparency Assessment (ITA) ranked the Government Housing Bank (GHB) as Integrity and Transparency Assessment (ITA) as the most transparent state agency, with the score of 99.60 (out of 100).

- Overall, the state agencies scored an average of 67.90 (out of 100).
- Most organizations got an ‘A’ including the NACC assessing itself to get an ‘A’ as well
 - ✓ Election Commission got an ‘A’
 - ✓ Office of the Auditor General got an ‘A’

Economic News

- The Ministry of Finance (MoF) is set to revise the country's gross domestic product (GDP) growth for the year 2020 in October amid positive economic indicators.
 - ❖ Economic recovery momentum during July and August which suggests that the economy could contract less in the third quarter than the previous period, said Fiscal Policy Office (FPO) adviser Wuttipong Jittungsakul.
 - ❖ The Ministry will factor in economic indicators in October when making a revision.
 - ❖ The country's GDP shrank 12.2 per cent year-on-year in the second quarter, its biggest decline since the Asian financial crisis in 1998, and 9.7 per cent quarter-on-quarter on a seasonally adjusted basis, according to the National Economic and Social Development Council (NESDC).
- Bank of Thailand (BoT) governor Veerathai Santiprabhob called for an urgent adjustment of the Thai economic structure to manage the risk of economic recession.
 - ❖ To do so, the Central Bank's governor suggested 3 ways including improving the economic productivity and in the global market; strengthening immunity, as well as reducing economic and social inequalities, the BoT governor said.

- Meanwhile, the Central Bank is heeding the impact of rising public debt on the Thai economy.

- ❖ The BoT's Puey Ungphakorn Institute for Economic Research indicated that rising personal loan debt during the past 10 years rose to 128,000 baht from 70,000 per person per month, with 60 per cent of debtors belong to people aged between 29 and 30.

- ❖ The age group for the debt undertaking has also fallen to people below 30 years of age taking on debts

- The debts have also seen the duration of the repayments extend in the past 10-years

- ❖ The data showed that from April to June about 8 million new accounts sought the need for more loans and these loans reached as high as 2.2 trillion baht

- A bulk of these debts were in the Isarn region.

- The tourism is going to boost the industry, but it will come with the threat of the virus

- Therefore, the government will have to come out to help in the debt management

- Thailand will extend the state of emergency until the end of October amid plans to allow selected groups of foreign visitors, long and short-term, to enter the kingdom starting next month.
 - ❖ The Centre for COVID-19 Situation Administration (CCSA)'s meeting chaired by Prime Minister Gen Prayut Chan-o-cha yesterday (September 28) approved the sixth extension of the state of emergency until October 31.
 - ❖ The extension is subject to cabinet approval today (September 29).
 - ❖ CCSA spokesman Thaweesilp Wissanuyothin said the CCSA meeting also agreed that selected groups of foreigners be allowed to enter the kingdom but they have to undergo a 14-day quarantine.
 - ❖ Foreigners allowed to enter the kingdom included Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC) Business Travel Card (ABTC) holders from low-risk COVID-19 countries such as New Zealand, Australia, Singapore, Malaysia, South Korea, Japan, China and Hong Kong.
 - ❖ "Special tourist visa (STV) holders who can stay up to 9 months in the kingdom are expected to arrive next month," he said at a press conference.
 - ❖ He added that 150 Chinese nationals holding the STV were scheduled to arrive in Phuket on October 8 followed by another Chinese group on October 25.
- Meanwhile the Center for COVID-19 Situation Administration (CCSA) has come out to say that it would start to allow more tourists to come into Thailand.
 - ❖ CCSA started the emergency on March 26th and has been extended 6-times now
 - ❖ October 8th would be the 1st lot to enter Thailand in Phuket.
 - There would be 120 tourists who would be on that flight

- All have to go through the 14-days quarantine
 - Market pundits predict that Finansa (FNS)'s bid to take control of MK Real Estate Development (MK) by purchasing MK stocks at 3.10 baht a share will be unsuccessful.
 - ❖ MK Real Estate Development is once again is a target for takeover, after a previous bid by Prateep Tangmatitham, chief executive officer of Supalai, failed in 2018. This time, Finansa is seeking to leverage its status as MK's largest stockholder, with 18.80 per cent followed by the 12.20 per cent held by Prateep.
 - FNS' board recently agreed to offer other MK stockholders 3.10 baht a share in a planned purchase worth 2.766 billion baht.
 - Prateep declined the offer, saying he still saw growth potential in MK.
 - ❖ Although one needs to notice that FNS and MK both have the same Chief Executive Officer – Vorasit Pokachaiyapat.
 - Embattled Prime Minister Prayut Chan-o-cha came out to say that a new Finance Minister would be in place by 'next week' after former FinMin Preedee Daochai resigned on September 1, 2020.
 - Prayut says the new FinMin has to be strong and has to be knowledgeable
 - He said that none of the names that have been mentioned are going to be the people who would take the job

General News

- Thailand logged 22 new COVID-19 cases including 16 Thai soldiers who returned from South Sudan on a UN peacekeeping mission, and zero fatalities over the last 24 hours, bringing the tally to 3,545 cases and 59 fatalities.

- ❖ Other new cases include 4 Indian nationals from India, a 24-year-old Thai studying in the Philippines and a 13-year-old Thai student arriving from Pakistan.
 - The Office of the Private Education Commission (Opec) has set up a special committee to investigate all 43 Sarasas private schools for more cases of student abuse following an incident at Sarasas Witaed Ratcha-phruek School which provoked outrage among parents and the public.
 - ❖ According to Opec, there have been recent complaints about bullying and inappropriate punishments at 34 Sara-sas schools.
 - The Ministry of Education has come out to say that they may close the close down
 - ❖ Sarasas Witaed Ratcha-phruek School's problems have risen after it was found that many more children were abused and beaten during their school hours
 - It was also found that the teacher at the centre of all the problem was not a teacher but became a teacher although she only had completed 9th grade education
 - Another 'English' teacher from Philippines was actually not a teacher but a tourist in Thailand who was working there illegally
