Thai Enquirer Summary

Top News

- The Centre for COVID-19 Situation Administration (CCSA) is set to determine colour-controlled zones today in response to rising Omicron infections in the country.
 - ❖ The Ministry of Public Health (MoPH) plans to ask the CCSA meeting today to adjust colour zones amid rising COVID-19 cases. The Ministry also ordered its officials to prepare more field hospitals to tackle a sharp rise of new cases that could again put pressure on the public healthcare system.
 - ❖ The MoPH plans to ask the CCSA to raise areas with significantly rising cases to “orange” zones. These zones will see stricter restrictions such as limitations on alcohol consumption following its move MoPH to raise the COVID-19 alert level to level 4 in response to the rapid spread of the Omicron variant of coronavirus.
 - ❖ The level 4 guidelines include the closure of areas prone to cluster infections, reduction of inter-provincial travels and gatherings.

- More restriction measures are expected to be imposed on venues that are allowed to be opened. Permanent Secretary of Public Health Kiattiphum Wongrajit yesterday outlined more containment measures mulled by the MoPH including:
 - ❖ High-risk venues may be ordered to be shut.
 - ❖ More containment measures may be implemented for venues that are allowed to remain opened.
 - ❖ More limitations will be placed on assemblies and social activities.
 - ❖ Employers will be asked to implement the work from home (WFH).
- NO Lockdown
 - ❖ Public Health Minister Anutin Charnvirakul said the higher alert level will bring “more limitations on activities”, however, there has been no decision on whether another lockdown is needed. He even said the country is well-prepared for the post-New Year COVID-19 case surge. An effective screening system is in place at immigration and isolation facilities are ready.
 - “The government will try to avoid lockdown to the best of our ability,” Anutin said.
 - ❖ State employees have already been told to work from home for 2 weeks to reduce the risks of infections, while schools have been advised to hold classes online.
 - ❖ Some of the measures will be considered at the Centre for COVID-19 Situation Administration (CCSA) today including shutting down high-risk areas, working from home and limiting inter-provincial travel, Kiattiphum said.

- ❖ Health officials reported 7,526 new infections in the past 24 hours, with 19 new deaths

Economic News

- Thailand's currency and stocks declined on concerns that fresh curbs may hurt the already fragile economy. The Thai Baht fell as much as 1% to 33.523 to a dollar, the most since November 26.
 - ❖ The benchmark stock index yesterday tumbled 23.76 points or 1.42% to close at 1,653.03 points on worries about the US Fed minutes and fears of a sooner-than-expected rate hike to curb inflation while a recent surge in domestic Covid-19 cases, which the Omicron variant has spread in many areas, as a pressure to the stock market.
 - ❖ The Thai bourse traded value over 106.48 billion baht yesterday. The index moved in negative territory all day with the highest level at 1666.22 points and the lowest at 1,653.03 points.
- The Thai Chamber of Commerce (TCC) has opposed a national lockdown amid the rapid spread of Omicron infections.
 - ❖ TCC chairman Sanan Angubolkul came out to say that the TCC disagreed with the prospect of a nationwide lockdown to limit all activities, saying that most of the country was fully vaccinated and the healthcare system is far from full capacity.

- ❖ The TCC feared that a nationwide lockdown will lead to further economic losses after resumption of economic activities this year. It urged the government to rebuild the economy and people's livelihoods, Sanan said, citing the opinions of business sectors nationwide. He said imposing a new lockdown would put the country back to square one.
- ❖ The TCC wants the government to focus more on increasing control measures in risk areas, preparing the health system in each province, especially for the severely ill, and creating better public awareness of the Home Isolation and Hospital measures. The private sector was ready to bring back bubble-and-seal measures for businesses, he added.
- Meanwhile The Federation of Thai Industries (FTI) is confident the government can slow the spread of the Omicron variant, though health officials raised the Covid-19 alert level following a rapid spike in new infections.
 - ❖ The warning level rose from 3 to 4 as officials encouraged people to work from home and suspend travel. Other measures include closing high-risk areas and limiting the number of people at gatherings.
 - ❖ "The FTI is not seriously concerned about the infections as they are still under 30,000 cases a day, which is viewed as a manageable rate by the government," said Kriengkrai Thiennukul, vice-chairman of the FTI.
 - ❖ The federation believes the government's two-year experience in dealing with the pandemic can help it get through the new outbreak.
- Liquefied petroleum gas (LPG) price are set to rise in February.
 - ❖ Kulit Sombatsiri, permanent secretary at the Ministry of Energy, warned that LPG retail price will definitely increase in February after the government has kept the price down at 318 baht per standard 15-kilogramme-LPG cylinder for nearly 2 years.
 - ❖ Kulit also warned of a rise in the electricity rate in 2022 as a result of a surge in Liquefied Natural Gas (LNG) price to US$20-50 per metric million British thermal unit (MMBTU).
 - ❖ Good news is that the National Energy Policy Council has resolved to subsidise electricity bills by capping the fuel tariff (Ft) rate by using funding from interests earned from the Myanmar gas deal under the take-or-pay agreement, Kulit said, confirming that diesel prices will still be capped at no more than 30 baht per litre.

- The Federation of Thai Capital Market Organizations (Fetco) chairman Paiboon Nalinthangkurn has come out to voice confidence in the Stock Exchange of Thailand (SET)'s performance this year, citing a relatively low inflation compared to other markets and a slim chance of an increase in interest rates.
 - ❖ Other positive factors seen by the Fetco are the country's economy which shows signs of recovery and listed companies' net profits which rose 12% this year, attracting foreign inflows. The Thai stock market saw 10 billion baht of foreign inflows per month this year. The body maintains its year-end SET index target at 1,800 points.
 - ❖ The Investor Confidence Index (ICI) for the next 3 months (March 2022) dropped 4.2% to 129.53 but remains in "bullish" territory, Paiboon said, citing ICI survey in December 2021.
 - ❖ Next week, Fetco's board meeting will discuss the Ministry of Finance's planned taxation on share sales in the Thai bourse. The majority of Fetco members opposed the ministry's taxation plan and will submit a letter to petition the ministry against the plan, citing long-term impact on the SET index's liquidity and capital inflows to decrease by 20-30%. The Fetco also feared that the Thai stock market will lose its competitiveness as it is known as the most trading liquid market in ASEAN.
- The Office of Insurance Commission (OIC) is set to face uphill battle with all the things it needs to do as companies are likely to face more pressure with the rising Covid-19 cases.
 - ❖ The OIC says that the insurance companies that have offered the Covid-19 insurance to clients are facing problems as the case load rises and is expected to rise further.
 - ❖ The OIC says that it is fearful that new claims could rise to as high as 180 billion baht and could make many companies go bankrupt.
- To pre-empt the possibility of cash crunch many insurance companies are preparing to file a lawsuit against the OIC to request the revocation of the order and claim damages. The OIC has said that companies that have issued the Covid-19 policies cannot cancel their policy and have to respect and honour the policy.

- ❖ The OIC insists that it will fight for the principle of accuracy and benefit of the people.

- Pork Prices

- ❖ Surachai Suthitham, President of the National Swine Raisers Association revealed that the government's temporary ban on pork exports for 3 months, stock notification and promotion of pig farming should help contain the rise in price of pork.

- But to see the results of the pig system returning to the normal cycle, it may take as long as 1 year and it certainly cannot bring down the price in the short term, but things will be able to return to normalcy by Chinese New Year festival in early February.
- There should be a chance to see the price of red meat pork at the butcher rise to more than 200 baht per kg.
