Thai Enquirer Summary

Political News

- The political climate is heating up again as the no-confidence vote against PM Gen Prayut Chan-o-cha and 10 other ministers is set to begin on July 19. According to reports, Thamanat Prompow, the leader of the Settakij Thai Party, along with his party members and the 16-group met with to see the infamous man for ‘borrowing’ millions of dollar worth of watches from his dead friends, Deputy PM Gen Prawit Wongsuwan to discuss the no-confidence vote.
 - ❖ Settakij Thai Party led by the drug dealing convict - Thamanat, he said that the party had not finalized the direction of the no-confidence vote yet but would arrange another meeting to do so soon.
 - ❖ Meanwhile, the group of ‘Sixteen’, except the Chart Pattana Party, had a brief conversation with Gen Prawit who asked them to vote in support of each minister.
 - ❖ According to reports, Dr. Rawee Maschamadol, party-list MP of the New Palang Dharma Party, asked Gen Prawit about Thamanat’s direction on the no-confidence vote, to which Gen Prawit replied he did not know as it had nothing to do with his Palang Pracharath Party.

- ❖ After that, the Sixteen group had their own meeting at Plearn Restaurant on Vibhavadi Rangsit Road to further discuss the matter.
- Pichet Satirachawan, party-list MP of the Palang Pracharath Party, revealed after having dinner with the Sixteen group that the Sixteen group would vote in unison but would consider 2014 coup leader and current Prime Minister Gen Prayut Chan-o-cha's and the ministers' answers to the opposition's accusations first.
 - ❖ If the parties could not clear all the doubts, he and his group would then have to leave, ensuring that it had nothing to do with personal gain and that the Sixteen group was independent.
 - ❖ Peerawit Ruedolphak, party-list MP of the Tairaktham Party and member of the Sixteen group, stated that his group was in no way trying to negotiate a deal with PM Gen Prayut Chan-o-cha. Also, his group would convene on July 22 to conclude the direction of the no-confidence vote on July 23.
- Many on social media are calling the bluff of the Group of Sixteen as a way to extract whatever they can from the government, i.e. – distribution of bananas.
 - ❖ Distribution of bananas is a idiom for taking kickbacks to vote for one side or the other. The last no-confidence debate reportedly saw distribution of 5-10 million baht for each MP to vote for the coalition partners.
 - ❖ This has prompted a meme on social media of the parliament building dishing out bananas, as a seasonal fruit.

- Prasert Chantaruangthong, Nakhon Ratchasima MP of the Pheu Thai Party, assured Pheu Thai's readiness for the no-confidence debate while also urging the Sretthakit Thai Party – led by Thammanat, to make a quick decision to join in the opposition before July 18 as the time for the no-confidence debate would all be taken by then.

- ❖ Admittedly, Prasert said it would be difficult to topple the government because there were some opposition MPs who intended to switch sides, but it would be good if the Srettakit Thai Party and the small parties consisting of 20-30 votes decided to join the opposition.
- The opposition has come out with their gimmicks for the no-confidence debate that starts tomorrow.
 - ❖ The Phue Thai came out with it last Friday with a Korean series kind of trailer of a video

- ❖ Move Forward over the weekend also came out with their gimmick calling it ‘the last nail in the coffin of Prayut administration.’
 - Move Forward has come out to say that there will be surprises that would not disappoint the public.
 - They also plan to allow people to vote on Facebook for or against those ministers who are to be grilled in the parliament.

- Panich Vikitsreth, a party-list MP of the Democrat Party, said on his Facebook regarding the imminent no-confidence debate on July 19-22 that he heard some people both in the opposition and the coalition tried to lobby the vote, but he would not fall for it and would not vote in favor of any minister who are involved in corruptions and was incapable of fixing the economy.
 - ❖ Panich said that if he did the contrary, it meant he disregarded the citizens' suffering given that Thailand's GDP was at 2.2%, almost the lowest in ASEAN, while the Philippines was at 8.3%, Vietnam at 5.03%, Indonesia at 5.01%, Malaysia at 5%, and Singapore at 3.4%.
 - ❖ Meanwhile, the Thai household debt for 2021, according to Panich, was at 205,679 Baht per household, or a 25.4% increase. The Thai public debt also broke 60% of the GDP, the highest figure in years.
 - ❖ He took Sri Lanka as a case study, saying it was not impossible for Thailand to end up with the same fate if all Thai citizens lost faith. Lastly, Panich affirmed that he would not support a minister whose hand was dirty or incapable of solving the economy
- The Ratsadon group held a mock no-confidence vote yesterday in 147 areas across 30 provinces as a prelude to the real debate tomorrow. Many of the mock-ups, however, were forced to stop by the officers, but a lot of people were still interested in attending the event.
 - ❖ The Ratsadon group said it would arrange another demonstration named "Camping at the parliament" in front of the parliament building in Bangkok between July 19-22 to inspect the no-confidence debate.

- Somchai Srisuthiyakorn, vice-chairman of the committee to consider the 2023 budget bill, stated that the committee would convene on July 18 from 9 AM to 9 PM to discuss the Ministry of Defense's budget list while commanders of all armies were required to explain the details of their needs in person.
 - ❖ The Ministry of Defense requested a budget of 197.2 billion baht, placing it fourth among all ministries, regardless of a slight 1.32% decrease in budget of 2.6 billion baht. As is customary, the ministry needs to clear up many questions about its enormous needs.
- Tomorrow former Prime Minister Thaksin Shinawatra is set to hold his bi-weekly talk on Clubhouse to talk about issues impacting the country.

ติดตามรับชมได้ที่ Facebook Live, Youtube Live, Clubhouse CARE ศึก เคลื่อนไทย

- ❖ Thaksin is set to talk about how the world is changing and how Thailand can handle the situation in the very volatile world.

- More protest around the Government House
 - ❖ Lottery vendors are gathering around the Government House to protest the plans by the government lottery office (GLO) to gradually have as much as 20% of all lotteries sold in Thailand to go online.
 - ❖ The GLO has so far seen a great success in putting up just over 7.17 million lottery tickets up for sale at 80 Baht a piece (against the 110++ that people pay when buying from street vendors).

- Nearly 94% of the 7.17 million lotteries were sold out within 2-days after going up for sale online.
- The GLO wants to increase 2 million tickets for the lottery drawing if the tickets are sold out within days of each issuance.
- The aim is to raise it to 20 million lottery tickets to be online from the 100 million tickets that are sold. The remaining 80 million tickets are to be sold by the 300,000 lottery vendors around the country. There are a total of 20 million lottery buyers in a country of just 70 million people.

Economic News

- Danucha Pichayanan, secretary-general of the National Economic and Social Development Council (NESDC), stated that the NESDC is closely monitoring the economies of the United States and Europe, which are important trade partners for Thailand.
 - ❖ The main source of concern, according to Danucha, was US inflation, which recently broke a 40-year high, forcing the US to raise interest rates, while Thailand is currently dealing with three issues:
 - The high inflation, which the Commerce Ministry announced, just hit 7.66% in June. For the 6-months of 2022, Thailand's inflation stood at 5.61%.
 - The prolonged war between Ukraine and Russia, that causes the oil and utility prices to rise sharply.
 - The global recession, which was previously anticipated to reach a recession level in the next year or so is catching up at a faster pace and may arrive earlier than expected.
 - ❖ He said that the reason most large companies stopped hiring or began to lay off their staff to cut expenditures was a clear sign of a recession.

- The high inflation, which the Commerce Ministry announced, hit 7.66% in June, Chaichan Chareonsuk, Chairman of the Thai National Shippers' Council (TNSC), revealed three factors that could affect the Thai export in the second half of the year including the unstable exchange rate, the lack of liquidity affected by expensive materials, and the global economic downturn.
 - ❖ According to Chaichan, Thai exports increased by 12.9 % in the first 5-months of the year, but if this trend did not continue for the rest of the year, the average growth will be just 5.6%.
 - ❖ However, he believed that Thailand will see an 8% export growth for the rest of the year as many Thai products are still in high demand.
- Two SET-listed firms -- renewable energy developer Gunkul Engineering and IT retailer Jay Mart -- are bolstering their joint venture, JGS Synergy Power, through a share swap worth 500 million baht each to tap into increasing demand for rooftop solar panels.
 - ❖ Gunkul expects the cooperation to help customers better plan payments for solar energy technology through a variety of financial solutions, including instalments, without the need to pay a huge amount of money.
 - ❖ The company believes solar panels will become an eye-catching alternative for businesses that want to avoid high electricity bills using the state grid.
 - ❖ JGS Synergy was registered in March, initially focusing on the solar rooftop business and related credit offers.

- Total Access Communication Plc (DTAC) recently revealed its earnings report for the first 6-months of 2022, gaining a net profit of only 1.73 billion baht, or a decrease from 2.35 billion baht for the same period last year while the total revenues from sales and services are at 40.09 billion baht, or a decrease from 40.50 billion baht.
 - ❖ In addition, DTAC reported a net profit of 1 billion baht in Q2 2022, or over a 34.4% decrease from the same period last year which saw a net profit of 1.53 billion baht and total revenue of 19.96 billion baht, or a 0.1% decrease from 19.98 billion in total revenue last year, due to high competitiveness.
- Thailand's currency continues to remain under pressure with the Thai Baht now trading at 36.55 baht to the US$ @ 09:10 am this morning.
 - ❖ The Thai Baht is not the weakest of the currencies that has been impacted from the stronger US$. That crown goes to Argentina and Japan (among developed economies)

- The 5 largest economies of the Asean region – Thailand, Singapore, Philippines, Malaysia & Indonesia are set to open their mobile payment systems to allow remittance of funds without relying on US$ by November this year.

- ❖ Currently only Thailand & Singapore are in the loop.

- The earnings season is out and as most of our readers are also investing in the foreign markets, here are some of the key earnings that you all should be looking out for.

- Bangkok governor Chadchart Sittipunt will be called upon by the Public Health Ministry to cut back on public activities the risk fuelling the spread of Covid-19.

- ❖ Bangkok is most prone to a surge in Covid-19 caseloads, according to the ministry, and the government has urged holidaymakers returning from their long weekend travels to self-test for infection.
- ❖ Kiattiphum Wongrajit, public health permanent secretary, said yesterday Covid-19 infections are on the rise, especially in Bangkok, its surrounding provinces as well as the main tourist provinces.
 - About 1,000 people out of the 2,000 infections are in Bangkok alone and 43% of the hospital beds in Bangkok are taken against 13% average around the country.

- ❖ But according to recent reports, Bangkok Spokeperson, Aekvarunyoo Amrapala, revealed that it was not a letter that directly invited the governor but rather the permanent secretary to join the meeting on July 18.
