Thai Enquirer News Summary

Economic News

- Prime Minister and Minister of Finance Srettha Thavasin took to X on January 7 to express his disagreement with the interest rate increases by the Bank of Thailand (BoT). He argued that hiking the rate despite the country witnessing declining inflation rate could harm the economy, particularly impacting low-income individuals and small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs).
- ❖ “I urge the Ministry of Commerce and other relevant ministries to reassess the pricing of certain agricultural products, which may be unfairly low,” Srettha stated. “Furthermore, I call upon the BoT to consider the well-being of the people by avoiding excessive interest rate hikes that don’t reflect the country’s inflation.”
- ❖ Srettha's comments come as the BoT's Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) prepares for its next meeting on February 7, 2024. At its previous meeting on November 29, 2023, the MPC opted for a 0.25% interest rate increase, bringing the policy rate from 1.00% to 1.25%. This decision reflected Thailand's ongoing

- ❖ For the first 9 months of 2023 (January-September), data from 10 commercial banks listed on the Thai stock market revealed a combined net profit of 186.55 billion Baht. This signifies over 14% year-on-year (YoY) increase.
- ❖ Looking ahead, the banking sector's projected full-year net profit is estimated to hit 202.18 billion Baht or an 18.5% growth compared to 2022. This will mark the new record for the banking industry.
- ❖ The banking sector had previously recorded their highest profits in 2014 with a profit of 190 billion Baht. This substantial increase in profitability raises questions about the role of the Bank of Thailand in regulating commercial banks.
- ❖ The low deposit rates offered to savers and the high interest rates charged by the banks has given each of the country's 4 largest banks earnings of more than 10 billion Baht each quarter. The data below is the results of Q3 2023 (Q4 results would be announced around end of February 2024).

Profits (9-Months) % Increase Savings Rate Lending Rate

	กำไร 9 เดือน	เพิ่มขึ้น	ดอกเบี้ย ออมทรัพย์	ดอกเบี้ย MRR
 กสิกรไทย	33,017 ล้าน	1.34 %	0.30 %	7.30 %
 กรุงเทพ	32,773 ล้าน	50.78 %	0.45 %	7.30 %
 ไทยพาณิชย์	32,527 ล้าน	6.99 %	0.30 %	7.30 %
 กรุงไทย	30,505 ล้าน	19.22 %	0.30 %	7.57 %

- Another corporate looks to bite the dust –

Italian-Thai Development Plc (ITD) is preparing a letter to its debenture holders to request a 2-year extension for repaying all of its outstanding series of debentures.

- ❖ ITD is seeking to postpone the repayment deadlines for five series of debentures with a combined value of 14.45 billion Baht. These includes:
 - Three series due in 2024
 - One series due in 2025
 - One series due in 2026
- ❖ The Thai Bond Market Association (TBMA) pointed out the irregularity of such a request. According to TBMA, ITD must convene a meeting with debenture holders to obtain their approval before extending the maturity date or opting for default.
- ❖ ITD's financial situation also raises concerns about potential consequences beyond the debenture repayment delay. The company has over 250 billion Baht in outstanding loans from commercial banks, and a default on its debentures could negatively impact its creditworthiness.
- ❖ ITD's total liabilities have been steadily increasing in recent years, rising from 88.10 billion Baht in 2019 to 107.60 billion Baht by September 30, 2023. The company has also faced consecutive losses from 2019 to 2022 due to the COVID-19 pandemic's impact. While it managed to return to profitability in the current year with a net profit of 379.05 million Baht, concerns remain about its long-term financial stability.

- The Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) will convene a meeting on January 10 to address two key issues: the program trading, and strategies to boost the Thai stock market in 2024.
 - ❖ This follows multiple discussions between the SEC, the Stock Exchange of Thailand (SET), and the Ministry of Finance. These talks aimed to identify potential weaknesses and areas requiring oversight in program trading, particularly in light of concerns about fairness for both large and small investors, as well as the possibility of market manipulation.
 - ❖ While the SEC is unlikely to ban program trading altogether, given its widespread global use, the meeting is expected to explore stricter regulations and the potential introduction of additional criteria for its operation.
- Prime Minister Srettha Thavisin stated that he just received feedback from the Council of State regarding the government's digital wallet project last week.
 - ❖ He revealed that the feedback only included suggestions and comments with no roadblocks against the project. A press conference will be held soon to announce the details.

Political News

- Yesterday, Prime Minister Srettha Thavisin and his cabinet visited Roi Et province to launch the “30-Baht Universal Healthcare, Treatment Everywhere (30 บาท รักษาทุกที่)” scheme.
 - ❖ The event was attended by Pheu Thai Party leader Paetongtarn Shinawatra and saw over 11,101 people in attendance. The initiative will initially cover 4 provinces: Roi Et, Phetchaburi, Narathiwat, and Phrae.

- ❖ Paetongtarn highlighted the project's 22-year history, initiated during the administration of her father, Thaksin Shinawatra. She mentioned that the initiative will extend to other regions soon. The project aims to provide affordable healthcare for all.

- Pheu Thai Party leader Paetongtarn Shinawatra on Sunday denied that she would be appointed a cabinet minister amid speculation about a cabinet reshuffle.
 - ❖ She said her focus was on implementation of Pheu Thai's policies, including the universal healthcare scheme and soft power development. "I'm not in the cabinet line-up. There is no discussion about it. I don't know where I'll be in the next four years. But right now, my name isn't in the cabinet," she said during a media interview in Roi Et.
 - ❖ Asked if she would accept the cabinet post if approached, she firmly denied any discussions about the matter and said it would be completely unexpected if her name was brought up.
 - ❖ The Pheu Thai leader also declined to comment about cabinet posts involving three Pheu Thai ministers who were speculated to resign as list-MPs. She said the matter should be addressed by the prime minister because she had nothing with this matter.
- Three Cabinet members of ruling coalition-leader Pheu Thai Party will resign as party-list MPs to focus on their ministerial work and allow candidates on the waiting list to replace them in the House.

- ❖ Deputy Prime Minister and Commerce Minister Phumtham Wechayachai said Deputy PM Somsak Thepsutin, Transport Minister Suriya Juangroongruangkit and Digital Economy and Society Minister Prasert Chanthararuangthong would soon resign as party-list MPs.
- ❖ “There’s nothing extraordinary about it because our Cabinet members have their hands full with work,” Phumtham said. The 3 Pheu Thai ministers also told him that they would like younger politicians of the party to have an opportunity to serve the country by working in the House.
- ❖ Phumtham said there was no plan for the party to talk to other Pheu Thai ministers to relinquish their party-list House seats like the three ministers. The party normally placed those suitable for posts in the Cabinet lower on the part-list but the party initially expected it would win at least 50 party-list MPs so Somsak, Suriya and Prasert were placed higher on the list.

- ❖ For the candidates, the 3 newly appointed party-list MPs, ranked 32-34, include Laong Tiypairat, Nanat Hongchuwet, Advisor to the Ministry of Tourism and Sports, and Chanin Rungthanakiat, Deputy Secretary-General of the Prime Minister's political affairs.

- Commerce Minister Phumtham Wechayachai will likely chair the House committee tasked with reviewing the government’s 3.48-trillion-Baht budget after it sailed through the first reading.

- ❖ The budget review committee comprises 72 members, of whom 18 are Cabinet members. The remainder are leading opposition party Move Forward (16), coalition leader Pheu Thai Party (15), Bhumjaithai (8), Palang Pracharath (5), United Thai Nation (4), Democrat (3), and smaller parties (3).
- ❖ Prominent members of the committee include former finance minister Kittiratt Naranong, current Deputy Finance Minister Julapun Amornvivat, Move Forward deputy leader Sirikanya Tansakul, Move Forward party-list MP Wayo Assawarungruang and Deputy Interior Minister Chada Thaiseth.
- ❖ This will be the first time for anyone other than the country's finance minister to chair the committee if the job is given to Phumtham. Prime Minister Srettha Thavisin holds the Finance portfolio. Apart from holding the Commerce portfolio, Phumtham also doubles as deputy prime minister.
- ❖ The panel will be in charge of reviewing and amending the bill before sending it to the House for a second reading. It will hold its first meeting at 1.30pm on Monday.

- Phumtham commented on a case where a member of the coalition government, Praphat Photsuthon, from the Chart Thai Pattana Party voted against the government's budget bill.
 - ❖ He stated that Varawut Silpa-archa, the party leader, already issued an apology to him, stating the vote was not intentional. Praphat himself also later called Phumtham to clarify that he voted in favor of the bill and said there must be some technical error with the parliament's voting system.
 - ❖ As for some opposition MPs voting in favor of the bill, Phumtham stated that it did not signal anything.
- After a 3-day debate, Parliament voted to pass the 2024 fiscal budget bill in its first reading with a vote of 310-176, and there were 4 abstentions. Two additional MPs cast their votes verbally after the initial voting, bringing the final tally to 311-177, with 4 abstentions.

- ❖ 137 Pheu Thai MPs voted in support of the budget with the exception of Suchart Tancharoen, Adisorn Piengket and Gen Phaisal Wattanawongsiri, who did not cast ballots. Pichet Chuamuangphan, the deputy House speaker, abstained.
- ❖ 71 Bhumjaithai MPs voted in unison in support of the bill. Though General Prawit Wongsuwan and Wanpen Promphat were absent, the other 38 Palang Pracharath MPs voted for the bill.
- ❖ All 36 MPs of the United Thai Nation party voted for the bill, while eight MPs from Chart Thai Pattana voted for the bill. Prapat Pothasuthon abstained.
- ❖ Eight Prachachat MPs voted for the bill, while Wan Muhamad Noor Matha, the House speaker, abstained. Three Chart Pattana Kla MPs voted in support of the bill.
- ❖ 146 opposition Move Forward MPs voted against. Thipa Paweenasathien did not vote. 23 Democrats voted against the bill. Chatri Promma did not vote.
- ❖ The second and third readings are expected on April 3-4.

- Thai Sang Thai Party Secretary General Takorn Tantasith resigned from his position after 3 of the party's MPs voted for the 2024 fiscal budget bill.
 - ❖ The opposition parties agreed to vote against the bill, but 4 MPs in the opposition parties did not follow suit.
 - ❖ The 4 include:
 - Supaporn Salaksri, Thai Sang Thai MP for Yasothon
 - Rang Thuraphon, Thai Sang Thai MP for Udon Thani
 - Adisak Kaewmungkunsap, Thai Sang Thai MP for Udon Thani

➤ Suratin Pichan, New Democracy Party list MP and leader of the party

- ❖ Takorn stated in his resignation letter that he resigned from the party to show responsibility for the MPs who voted against the opposition's and the party's mandate. He had conducted three meetings with the five MPs from the party before the voting to ensure everyone would vote the same way, but it did not happen.
- ❖ Thai Sang Thai Leader Sudarat Keyuraphan posted before Takorn resigned, expressing her apologies to the party's followers and members that three of the party's MPs voted against the party and the opposition. She stated that the party would conduct an investigation into what happened. Additionally, she said she is currently abroad.

- Most Thais still believe that the political situation in Thailand will remain turbulent in 2024, according to a recent survey by Nida Poll conducted between December 12-20, 2023.
 - ❖ The survey showed that 45.65% of respondents believe that the political situation will remain turbulent, while 28.40% expect it to worsen. Only 14.34% anticipate a reduction in political unrest, and 6.95% believe there will be no political turbulence.
 - ❖ The survey also captured opinions on Prime Minister Srettha Thavisin's government in 2024, revealing that 39.16% expect him to stay in office throughout this year. Additionally, 20.46% anticipate a cabinet reshuffle, 10.61% foresee a dissolution of parliament for a new election, 8.40% expect the Prime Minister to resign, and 7.86% expect a potential transition to Paetongtarn Shinawatra as the new Prime Minister.
 - ❖ In terms of the economic outlook for Thailand in 2024 compared to 2023, 35.65% believe the economic conditions will improve, while 31.22% think they will remain the same.

General News

- Public Health Minister Cholnan Srikaew has signed proposed legislation regarding cannabis, emphasising that it cannot be used for recreational purposes. The new law will clearly stipulate that cannabis must be used for medical purposes only. It will also encourage the use of cannabis for a range of health benefits.
 - Regarding the using of cannabis for recreational purposes, there will be a clear measure to control and prevent this. The measure may come in the form of a ministerial regulation passed by the cabinet, or from a panel. If the cabinet approves the principle of the bill, it will be submitted to the Lower House for consideration.
 - Cholnan said whether the buying of cannabis will require a medical certificate or not has not been included in the bill just yet. This may have to depend on the enforcement of organic laws. But using cannabis at home for medical purposes must be based on correct medical procedures and research.
 - Asked about the impact on cannabis stores, there have been no such laws set to revoke licenses for running legally registered stores once the law is put in place, cannabis stores must sell only the parts of the cannabis plant that are deemed legal in Thailand.
